JROTC Prepares Woodrow Wilson Students for College, Military, and the Workforce!

ARMY JUNIOR RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS (JROTC)

blends character education, academics and hands-on exercises to promote leadership, teamwork, physical fitness and professional skills. Cadets directly impact our community by volunteering their time and resources supporting food banks, visiting veterans' homes and participating in patriotic ceremonies for our country.

WWHS students — many of which are the first in their families to attend college — are supported throughout their career planning journey with intentional lessons: resume writing, financial management, test-taking strategies for college entrance exams, and applying for government financial aid and scholarships.

Portsmouth JROTC programs have some of the highest-ranked teams in the region!

FUN FACTS

200+ CADETS IN AJROTC, making Wilson's program one of the largest in the region!
